

Name _____

As I read, I will pay attention to end punctuation in each sentence and how it affects my intonation and expression.

15 Jin and Li Mei crept to the corner of the room. Jin pulled the loose 28 board out of the floor and squeezed through the hole. Then she helped 35 her sister slide down through the opening.
42 “It’s still dark, Jin,” said Li Mei.
54 “Not for long,” whispered Jin. “Now hold on to my jacket and 59 follow me. And be quiet!”
72 They began to crawl. It was damp and smelly under the building. Li
85 Mei began to complain. But soon the girls were standing in the dim
88 light of morning.
99 The ghostly sounds of foghorns filled the harbor. Angel Island itself, 111 however, was quiet. It seemed deserted. Soon the boat would bring the 124 island workers from San Francisco. Jin and Li Mei would then have to 135 hurry back. They were not allowed to leave the barracks without 147 permission. But it was worth the risk. Jin loved these opportunities to get away from the crowded barracks. 153
